ABOUT RACHEL KERSHAW

After an epic summer blogging on behalf of VisitEngland in the lead up to the London Olympics 2012, it seemed only right that Rachel kept writing about her favourite city and the place she calls home, so Life in Geordieland was born in 2013. Rachel has a great passion for the North East and her blog regularly features enthusiastic responses to what's going on in the region. Her dog Pat, partner James and fun-loving nieces and nephews often accompany Rachel on her adventures, providing opportunities for her to blog about a wide variety of subjects. Rachel has a background in advertising & marketing so is PR friendly and loves working with brands that fit her niche.
